Potential reviewers

The authors respectfully suggest the following potential reviewers whose expertise aligns closely with the manuscript's theoretical and empirical focus. To the best of our knowledge, none of the suggested scholars has a conflict of interest with the authors. We confirm that we have not co-authored any publications, nor collaborated on research projects with any of the listed individuals within the past five years.

Anthony Elliott

Anthony.Elliott@unisa.edu.au

University of South Australia

Professor Elliott's work on reflexive modernity, identity, and the emotional dimensions of technological change aligns with the manuscript's focus on risk, subjectivity, and AI.

Deborah Lupton

d.lupton@unsw.edu.au

University of New South Wales Sydney

Professor Lupton's research on risk, emotions, and digital technologies is directly relevant to the manuscript's analysis of culturally mediated perceptions of AI-related risk.

Ortwin Renn

ortwin.renn@rifs-potsdam.de

Research Institute for Sustainability

Professor Renn's expertise in risk governance and risk communication makes him well suited to evaluate the manuscript's theoretical framework.

Anna Olofsson

anna.olofsson@miun.se

Mid Sweden University

Professor Olofsson's work on the social construction and local interpretation of risk corresponds to the manuscript's concept of local risk filters.
